Dikran DIKRANJAN

On a question of Conway

Abstract. Many authors (including Conway, Reid, etc.) have wrongly claimed that every Tychonov space is sequentially closed in its Stone-Cech compactification. The aim of the talk is to discuss the background for this common mistake and describe in many different ways the spaces that have (or fail to have) this curious property.